AMERICANS TAKE 'CHARMS' OF WAR VILLAGE, 450 PRISONERS. HILL 192 ARE HARSHIPS; OLD SERGEANT RECRUITED

tion. This is the most important terminus the Germans have hitherto possessed for their line of communications running from the Marne to the Aisne. It will be impossible for Hindenburg hereafter to use this station. The Americans now dominate it completely.

Chateau-Thierry's own safety is seriously menaced by the American advance. The Germans' positions at Vaux were exceptionally strong because Vaux guards the main highway running into Chateau-Thierry from the west. The Americans now control this road. The capture of Hill 204, which apparently has been made by united Franco-American forces, doubly assures the safety of the Americans on the Vaux road. Hill 204 is midway between Vaux and Chateau-Thierry, dominating the Vaux road from the southern flank.

There are no remaining strongholds protecting Chateau-Thierry from the west. The defense of Chateau-Thierry henceforth must occur within the immediate environs of the town itself. The town may fall to the Americans at the next assault.

The new American exploit inspires the effectiveness of the American system of training. The method of assigning in advance to each man his post in the town to be captured and of identifying that post by personal maps and photographs marks a new advance in the technique of offensive fighting.

ENEMY FAILS IN EFFORT TO RECAPTURE TERRITORY

LONDON, July 2.—An enemy attack which sought to recapture the ground taken by us Friday night was repulsed with heavy loss except at one point, where the enemy gained a footing. Field Marshal Haig reported today.

"Attempted enemy raids in the neighborhood of Aveluy wood, Avion and Hinges were repulsed and a few prisoners taken."

FURTHER AUSTRIAN ATTEMPTS IN ITALY ARE DEVELOPING

THE FIELD, July 1. (Night).—Further Austrian attempts to capture Monte di Valbella are developing.

The enemy left at least 1500 dead on the slopes after yesterday afternoon's assault. Nearly 2000 prisoners were taken yesterday and the preceding day.

Capture of Monte di Valbella, Col del Rosse and Col de Chelo was the result of perfect co-operation between the Italian infantry and artillery. The enemy's losses were very heavy, while ours were light.

The Austrians entered four divisions (48,000 men). The Italian Ninth infantry, the Regina brigade and a company of Czechoslovaks won particular distinction in the storming of Monte di Valbella and the subsequent defense of that height against enemy counter attacks.

ITALIANS SCORE GAINS IN FIGHTING TODAY

ROME, July 2.—An Italian attack northwest of Mont Grappa beginning this morning has already yielded 569 prisoners and many machine guns. South of Asiago British troops also captured troops and supplies. New enemy assaults on the Asiago plateau were crushed under heavy fire.

FRENCH AND AMERICANS TAKE VILLAGE, 200 CAPTIVES

PARIS, July 2.—French and American troops west of Chateau-Thierry last night took the village of Vaux and the heights to the west, the French war office announced today. The Americans took 200 prisoners, including five officers.

"West of Chateau-Thierry a local operation by Franco-American troops enabled them to improve their positions on the Vaux-Hill 204 front," the communiqué said. "The Vaux village and the heights to the west were taken by the Americans, who captured 200 prisoners, including five officers."

"Between Montdidier and Noyon and east of Rheims French troops took prisoners in raids."

"German attacks near Belley, Haute and in Alsace were repulsed by French fire."

BRITISH COUNTER DRIVES GERMAN TROOPS BACK

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, July 2.—A British counter attack, delivered shortly after midnight, is believed to have driven the Germans from the point where they obtained a foothold northwest of Albert yesterday.

South African Veteran Didn't Enthuse Over Talk of War's Advantages

BY CAPTAIN LORD DUNSANY (Written for the United Press)

LONDON, June 8 (By mail).—By the end of the South African war Sergeant Cane had got one thing very well fixed in his mind, and that was that war was an over-rated amusement. He said "he was fed up with it," partly because that misused metaphor was then new, partly because everyone was saying it; he felt it right down in his bones, and he had a long memory.

So when wonderful rumors came to the East Anglian village where he lived, on August 1, 1914, Sergeant Cane said "That means war," and decided then and there to have nothing to do with it; it was somebody else's turn, and he felt he had done enough. Then came August 4th, and England was true to her destiny; and then came Lord Kitchener's appeal for men. Sergeant Cane had a family to look after and a nice little house; he had left the army ten years.

In the next week all the men went in the war, and Sergeant Cane, who had been in the army before, all that were young enough; and a good sprinkling of the young men, too, who had never been in the army. Men asked Cane if he was going, and he said straight out, "No." By the middle of August Cane was affecting the situation. He was a little rallying point for men who did not want to go. "He knows what it's like," they said.

Squire and His Son

In the smoking room of the Big House sat the Squire and his son Arthur Smith, and Sir Munion Boomer-Platt, the member for the division. The squire's son had been in the last war as a boy, and like Sergeant Cane had left the army since. All the morning he had been cursing an imaginary general, seated in the War Office at an imaginary desk with Smith's own letter before him, in full view but unopened. Why on earth didn't he answer it, Smith thought. But he was calmer now, and the Squire and Sir Munion were talking of Sergeant Cane.

"Leave him to me," said Sir Munion. "Very well," said the Squire. So Sir Munion Boomer-Platt went off and called on Sergeant Cane. Mrs. Cane knew what he had come for. "Don't let him talk you over, Bill," she said. "Not me," said Sergeant Cane. Sir Munion came on Sergeant Cane in his garden. "A fine day," said Munion. And from that he went on to the war. "If you enlist," he said, "they will make you a sergeant again at once. You will get a sergeant's pay and your wife will get the new separation allowance."

W. S. S.—

"Would Keep Cane at Home

"Sooner have Cane," said Mrs. Cane. "Yes, yes, of course," said Sir Munion.

"But then there is the medal, probably two or three medals, and the glory of it; and it is such a splendid life."

Sir Munion did warm to a thing whenever he began to hear his own words. He painted war as it has often been painted, especially in Germany; one of the most beautiful things you could imagine. And then it mustn't be supposed that it was like these wars that there used to be, a long way off; there would be houses where you would be billeted, and good food, and shady trees and villages wherever you went. And it was such an opportunity of seeing the Continent ("The Continent as it really is," Sir Munion called it) as would never come again; and, (of course) he only wished he were younger. Sir Munion really did wish it, as he spoke, for his own words stirred him profoundly; but somehow or other they did not stir Sergeant Cane. No, he had done his share, and he had a family to look after.

Sir Munion could not understand him: he went back to the Big House and said so. He had told him all the advantages he could think of, that were there to be had for the asking, and Sergeant Cane merely neglected them.

"Let me have a try," said Arthur Smith. "He soldiered with me before." Young Smith Tries

Sir Munion shrugged his shoulders. He had all the advantages at his fingers ends, from pay to billeting; there was nothing more to be said. Nevertheless young Smith went.

"Hullo Sergeant Cane," said Smith. "Hullo, sir," said the Sergeant. "Do you remember that night at Reit River?"

"Don't I, sir!" said Cane. "One blanket each and no ground-sheet."

"I remember, sir," said Cane. "Didn't it rain?" said Smith. "It rained that night, proper."

"Drowned a few of the lice, I suppose."

"Not many," Smith reflected. "The Boers had the range all right, that time."

"Gave it us proper," said Cane. "We were hungry that night," said Smith. "I could have eaten biltong."

Cane Tried It

"I did eat some of it," said Cane. "Not bad stuff, what there was of it, only not enough."

"I don't think," said Smith, "that I've ever slept on the bare earth since."

"No, Sir?" said Cane. "It's hard. You get used to it. But it will always be hard."

"Yes, it will always be hard," said Smith. "Do you remember the time we were thirsty?"

"O yes, Sir," said Cane. "I remember that, On doesn't forget that."

"No, I still dream of it sometimes,"

FAILS TO BRING IN CONTESTED CONTRACT

Judge Thomas again had J. H. Buhrman on the stand, this time at a night session of court in proceedings that seek to determine what has come of Buhrman's property. At a previous hearing it was brought out that Buhrman had deeded his ranch to his sister, who lives at San Pedro, and three days later filed a questionnaire claiming exemption because he had to look after the ranch. At that hearing Buhrman said he had entered into a contract with his sister whereby he deeded her the property, and she was obligated to take care of him the rest of his life if he should go to war and come back helpless. It was expected that Buhrman was to bring that contract into court last night, but he did not have it. Judge Thomas gave Buhrman instructions to produce that contract for inspection by Attorney H. G. Ames, who represents J. W. Walls. Further hearing was continued to July 12. Walls has a judgment against Buhrman, and it is in connection with Walls' efforts to find something upon which execution can be secured that the hearings have been held.

WASSERMAN WRITES INTERESTING LETTER FROM FRANCE

American Soldiers Practically Monopolize Everything Where Stationed

From St. Nazaire, France, comes an interesting letter from H. J. Wasserman, former Southern Pacific agent here, to his friend, J. S. Hill.

"I often wonder how Santa Ana is," he writes, "and if there are many changes there now. There surely must be because things did not look the same when I was down Christmas. It certainly is strange not to see any of the fellows you know, and although I have been in about fifteen cities since coming to France, I have so far failed to find a single person that I knew, and I thought that I knew quite a lot of people, and a good many of my friends are in France."

Wasserman writes that in spite of four years of war the people of France are not depressed and he believes that "if the Germans were about the same distance as Orange from Santa Ana that the people would still go about their business indifferent to any danger, imbued with one idea and that is that they can lick the Boche, so you see the Germans have by no means got them bluffed or frightened."

"It looks funny to see the soldiers practically monopolize everything in the towns that they come into—they don't realize that they are in another man's country. A person coming into the country hardly realizes it is France—if you didn't know you would think that what Frenchmen you see are foreigners, whereas it is we that are foreigners.

"Every kid goes to school here, no matter how poor he is, and kids 'playing hooky' are unknown. School teachers are well paid considering. I was talking to one recently who said she received the equivalent of $55 per month, but they certainly are compelled to qualify before they receive an appointment. It seems that the boys and girls are kept separate in school."

"As I write this I am looking out of 20 years old meet on the street and in mark as to the quaint customs—two really nice young ladies about 18 or 20 years old meet on the street and invariably shake hands; when they are through gossiping they take each other by the hand and kiss each other on the right and left cheek alternately, and leave."

"I guess you read by the papers of the large number of men that are coming across. I am not permitted to remark on this subject, but I hope that some of them that come across will be from Santa Ana."

"Be sure to write to me as it takes about three weeks for a letter to reach me, and I think that you will realize how much a fellow wants to hear from his friends. We are supposed to write only a certain number of letters, therefore the reason for my not writing to more of my friends in Santa Ana, but if you will give them my address and tell them to write me I will certainly appreciate it. A letter will always get to me no matter where I am, and no matter how many times my address changes. I have not said anything about the war and I guess the less the better, but I guess every one realizes that everyone for some time will have a chance to come to France to fight."

Wasserman's address is: RTC, Care RTO, at A.P.O. No. 701, American E. F., France.

LAGUNA BEACH

TEN CONVENT SISTERS AT ARCH BEACH FOR SEVERAL WEEKS

They Occupy Ibbetson Cottage; R. Clarkson Coleman Keeps "Open Studio"

LAGUNA BEACH, July 2.—The small Ibbetson cottage at Arch Beach is now occupied by ten Sisters of the Ramona convent, near Los Angeles. The Sisters expect to remain at Arch Beach for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Streeter of Riverside arrived in Laguna Beach Saturday. They will remain through July, occupying their cottage upon the bluff just south of the hotel.

Mrs. John Beatty and her daughter, Miss Edna Beatty, are guests this week of Mrs. E. E. Jahraus of Laguna Cliffs. Miss Syfert, Mrs. Beatty's sister, will join them over the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Clarkson Coleman, who have this last winter established themselves in "Studio-by-the-Sea," their attractive little cottage at Arch Beach, announce that during the summer they will keep "open studio." Some of Mr. Coleman's latest pictures will be on exhibition, and he and Mrs. Coleman will welcome those interested in art.

Mr. Kaust, the well known art dealer of Los Angeles, and his wife, will be guests of the Colemans over the Fourth.

The George Bishop family of Anaheim spent Saturday night at the Laguna Beach Hotel. The visit was in the nature of a fishing trip and was much enjoyed by the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Glenn and their two children have been occupying the Mansur cottage on the water front during the past week. Mr. Glenn returned to Santa Ana Sunday but the rest of the family will remain until the last of the week.

Mrs. Ruby Hickox and her two daughters, of Santa Ana, spent last week in the Marguerite cottage on Laguna Cliffs. They had as guests Mrs. Herbert Cleaver and her son, Donald.

Mrs. A. T. O'Rear and party of Santa Ana spent one night last week in the Bonnie Brae cottage at Laguna Beach.

A new artist, Nicholas Haiz, of Los Angeles, has taken rooms at the hotel for an indefinite period. Mr. Haiz is instructing in painting.

SHIP CO. WANTS EXTENSION OF TIME ON BAY LAND LEASE

Low Bidders on 11 Wooden Vessels, Claimed; Newport Council In Session

NEWPORT BEACH, Cal., July 2.—Three of the promoters of the Newport Shipbuilding Company were present at the meeting of the Board of Trustees last evening and made a strong plea for an extension of ninety days on their lease of the city's twelve acres of land near the entrance to Newport Harbor upon which they expected to construct cement ships. The men were E. N. Childers, R. N. Watson and J. W. Jenkins of Los Angeles.

Mr. Childers, who appeared to be the spokesman and was most active in securing the original lease, told of the unexpected difficulties which had been encountered, some of which had been overcome, and said that just as they felt sure of landing the contract for eleven wooden boats, they received notice that the city had started action to null the lease to their site. The proposition of building cement ships was given up after the establishment of two plants on the Atlantic, two on the Pacific and one on the Gulf of Mexico by other firms, and word was received from the government that no encouragement would be given to other plants than those established.

They then turned their attention to steel and wooden ships and their representative in Washington, F. O. Engstrom, was instructed to bid on several contracts, and among the number upon which bids were submitted, the Newport Shipbuilding Company's figures were lowest on eleven of the smaller craft. Mr. Childers stated that he felt confident that if they could get started building boats, no matter how small, it would put Newport Harbor on the map.

City Attorney Bishop informed the board that he had started proceedings to cancel the lease, per their instructions, and the papers have been filed with the county recorder.

The board held an executive session and finally after an hour or more of argument and debate, they decided to let the matter stand as it was and refused to grant the promoters the ninety-day extension. However, they told the shipbuilders that they stood ready to co-operate with them just as soon as they were ready to fulfill the terms of the contract and begin the building of a shipbuilding plant.

Seek Railway Crossing
A communication was received from the Railroad Commissioners in regard to the application for a grade crossing over the P. E. and S. P. at 26th street, and they reported that the matter had been investigated and a crossing was badly needed at this street. The commission instructed the city to take the matter up with the railway companies and see if they would grant an easement across their right of way at this point.

Pete Perocich decided that he did not want the job of janitor and caretaker of the city hall for $50 per month, so the board accepted the application of John Sharps.

The claim of Fred B. Saunders for reimbursement for electrical wiring and fixtures on Balboa Island taken over by the city was denied after Trustee McCain reported that an agreement was made to turn the wire over to the city if electricity was supplied for street lighting on the island.

Water Tank for Island
The Pacific Pipe & Supply Company, whose bid for the construction of a water tank on Balboa Island was accepted by the board, stated that they were ready to begin the construction of the reservoir and the work would be commenced at once. The tank will be built on a lot which the city recently purchased of Art L. Heard.

The request of Marshal J. A. Porter for a two weeks' vacation, from July 8 to 22, was granted by the councilmen.

W. W. Wilson, employed by the city to obtain contracts from the property owners for filling in their lots when the dredging was started, reported that he had interviewed a number of the land owners and many of them signified their willingness to fill and were ready to sign the contracts. He stated that the Pacific Electric, however, did not want to close up the deal of trading land or lots to the city to pay for what filling they wished done and he was still waiting for a decision from them.

A. N. Smith, who has formerly served on the police force of Newport Beach, made application for the job of deputy policeman for the summer months and was appointed by the board for the months of July, August and September at a salary of $75 per month.

May Build Walk on Jetty
William Ledbetter, the jetty contractor, submitted a communication to the board in which he stated that he was about to salvage the superstructure and material used in the construction of the jetty and that if the city wished to reserve any of the piling or material, they should notify him at once. The board talked of keeping the piling and building a walk on the jetty for the convenience of fishermen and also preserve the piling for the time when the jetty would be extended. They instructed the street committee to get a price from Mr. Ledbetter on the materials.

Roy Jumper, purser at the city's water plant, was given a raise in salary from $75 to $90 per month.

10,000 MOVIE MEN AWAIT RULING AS TO WORK-FIGHT ORDER

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—Ten thousand people employed in the local studios are awaiting today a ruling from Sacramento on the "work or fight" order with their jobs in the balance. Attorneys for the state exemption board are working on the classification of motion picture employees as to the necessity of their occupations.

Fully eight per cent of the men employed in the movie industry here are of military ages. In addition to actors, these men are also in important places in the laboratories and do all the cinematography. An order listing their work as "unessential" would practically close the studios for some time, for the cameramen and laboratory men are highly trained specialists and cannot be replaced without delay.

MAKING LAND FOR SOLDIERS

To the department of the interior falls much of the problem of providing a home and a livelihood for the returned soldier. Secretary Lane, in bringing this matter before the public, points out the fact that the United States no longer has a great public domain of cultivable land open to settlement, as it had at the close of the Civil war. Today the land that is left needs a good deal of development to put it into shape. Irrigation, drainage and clearing projects must be carried out if the land is to be made available for cultivation.

The chief need right now, Mr. Lane points out, is for a comprehensive plan and funds to work it out. The nation must know before its soldiers return just where the land worth developing lies, what treatment it needs, and how to go about developing it. Then the returned soldier can choose for himself the kind of land he wants to work with. The government must be ready not only to point out available land, but also to help the soldier-farmer in every way with financial loans, scientific knowledge and up-to-date machinery.

The problem of returning the soldiers to the normal daily life of the nation without economic upheaval or disturbance is ours to face now. Past experience has shown that the strenuous outdoor life of the soldier especially fits him for work on the land when he returns to civilian life. Canada and England have worked out successful solutions for their present needs. We can and must do the same for ourselves. It is no charitable arrangement for the benefit of the soldier citizens. The initial expense to the government will be more than repaid by the increase of national resources and the self-respect and happiness of the population.

PLENTY OF GASOLINE

It is good news to automobilists and to the business world that there is no danger of a gasoline scarcity. The conditions that cripple the private use of motor cars in England and France do not and will not prevail here. There is formal assurance from the government, through the fuel administration, that we shall have all the gasoline we need while the war lasts—that is, provided the supply of crude petroleum holds out.

Not much fear is expressed on that score. Many of our own wells are running dry, but the incalculable deposits of Tampico and Tuxpam are now available and will remain so as long as we maintain our present relations with Mexico. It is hardly conceivable that hostile influence should succeed in interrupting that source of supply.

The principal saving factor in the situation, however, is the fact that gasoline is now being made virtually as a by-product. Immense and ever-increasing quantities of fuel oil are needed for oil-burning ships of our navy and merchant marine. We may call either the fuel oil or the gasoline a by-product—the result is the same. Along with the requisite heavy oil we get the distilled product in such volume that all the needs of our great gas-engine industry, for purposes of work and even of pleasure within proper limits, can be fully supplied.

The price of gasoline may rise, owing to higher freight charges and other causes, but it will not become prohibitive. Everybody whose business or personal plans depend directly or indirectly on the continuance of this fuel supply may therefore go ahead without misgivings.

COAL FOR OUR ALLIES

Another reason for saving coal is revealed in a Washington dispatch. It may become necessary to divide our coal with France and Italy.

Both of those countries are in a bad way as regards their fuel supply. The biggest French coal mines were grabbed by Germany in 1914, and other valuable deposits have been lost in the recent German advance. French production has therefore dwindled to an almost negligible quantity. Italy has practically no coal of her own.

Both countries have thus far depended on Great Britain for their war supply. That has imposed a big burden on a country quite sufficiently burdened otherwise. The growing labor scarcity makes it more and more difficult to send the necessary coal from the Welsh mines, particularly because of the old-fashioned labor methods used in loading the ships. It is pointed out that the fine mechanical facilities for loading coal at American ports gives us a great advantage in this respect. Heretofore ships have been lacking, but there will probably be enough tonnage before long. Cars can very likely be supplied, too.

The main question is whether we can produce an export surplus. If our allies' need becomes imperative, and cannot be satisfactorily met otherwise, there will be but one answer—of course we can! In the meantime, all our agencies of production and consumption must take into account that possible contingency.

We may have a wrong perspective on the cost of living. Four great essentials, fresh air, sunshine, wholesome exercise and sleep, don't cost any more today than they cost Adam in the Garden of Eden.

American congress authorizes new eight billion dollar Liberty Bond issue, bringing the bond total authorized to $20,000,000,000, and every one of them is aimed at the Hun. Berlin papers please copy.

Telegraph advices state that the German press and people are bitter against Austria because of the latter's defeat against the Pave. What's that old saying about glass houses?

Our New Army

By F. P. Stockbridge in N. Y. Times

One year ago we had a total military force of 9524 officers and 202,510 enlisted men.

Today we have 123,801 officers and 1,528,924 enlisted men with at least three months' training.

We have upward of 8 million registered young men in reserve and are calling them into service as rapidly as they can be accommodated in camps.

At least 4 million of them will be accepted for the national army.

Of the 1,057,363 men selected for service under the first draft 639,054 or 60.44 per cent exemption claims.

Of the 3,082,949 men called in the first draft substantially half or 1,560,570 filed exemption claims of which 1,215,049 were allowed.

One million five hundred thousand and fifty-six or 48.66 per cent in the first draft were married.

Of these only a shade over 10 per cent were accepted for service, 1,336,941 being discharged and 163,115 accepted. The number of single men accepted in the first draft was 623,796.

Of the 6,503,559 men registered on June 5th, 1917, and not called in the first draft, 3,149,473 were married and 3,354,086 single.

At this rate only 342,348 of the married men already called will be taken in later drafts as against 1,321,845 single men.

Eighty per cent, therefore, of the national army is composed of single men.

Nearly one-fourth of the entire number of men between 21 and 31 years old were farmers.

In the national army now ready to take the field are 18,000 coal miners, 10,000 metal miners, 24,000 shopkeepers and clerks, 30,000 professional men, doctors, lawyers, artists, actors and journalists.

Foreigners numbering 76,545 who have not become citizens were accepted for service in the first draft.

We even took 928 Germans, 13,233 subjects of Austria, 302 Bulgars and 1000 Turks.

About 12 per cent of all the men registered for the draft are aliens.

About 10 per cent of those now under arms were aliens when they went to camp. A very large proportion of these have since become citizens.

Out of the first 2½ million men to take the physical examination before the local boards, 730,000 were rejected as physically unfit.

Of those accepted by the exemption boards about 6.7 per cent were rejected for physical causes after arriving at camp.

Of these men 21 per cent were rejected for eyesight defects. Next came bad teeth, 8½ per cent being discharged, after reaching camp, for this cause. Hernia, ear trouble and heart affections rank next.

A little more than 7½ per cent of the men registered for the draft are negroes—737,626 out of the total of 9,586,608.

Out of the 208,953 negroes called by the boards 75,697 were certified for service, or 36.23 per cent; and whites only 24.75 per cent.

More than 700,000 of the first draft were totally illiterate. Of those taken into the service more than 30,000 were unable to sign their names.

We now have 16 great cantonments each capable of housing, feeding and caring for 47,000 men besides the 15 camps in which the national guards were at first housed.

Each cantonment has 1400 separate buildings. In all more than 22,000 buildings have been constructed at a cost of about 136 million dollars.

More than 650 million feet of lumber was used and 80 thousand carloads of material and furnishings.

To protect the soldiers 20 million blankets and 40 million yards of mosquito netting were bought.

To clothe them involved such purchases as 75 million yards of olive drab cloth, 35 million yards of flannel shirting, 26 million suits of winter underwear and 17 million pairs of shoes and 6,500,000 overcoats.

Food is bought for them in such units as 116 million cans of baked beans—a single recent purchase—91 million cans of condensed milk and 20,287,000 pounds of prunes.

The war department's recent purchases include 23 million hand grenades—725,000 automatic pistols, 240,000 machine guns and 2,484,000 rifles.

The 10 million men registered in the first draft and those registered in the second draft will furnish about 4 million more soldiers if the proportion of exemptions is maintained.

It has been estimated that the number of men between the ages of 31 and 45 are 10,583,249 and of boys from 18 to 21, 3,087,063.

Bud Flivver's Observations

 I got a letter—From Donald Snuffer—And he asked me—What would I do—With a man that wanted to—Hog a car seat—

 And that reminds me—Of the other day—When I was on a train—Coming from San Francisco—

 And I went—Into the smoker—And it was full—All but one seat—And that was nearly full—

 And I asked the fellow—Could I sit down—And he looked peeved—And picked up his grip—And his papers—And I sat down—

 And I told him—I was much obliged—But he didn't look—Like I was very welcome—Or anything—

 And he wouldn't talk—And he sociable—Like a decent guy—And he wouldn't sit over—And give me much room—

 And he started—To read the paper—And he held it wide open—So it tickled my face—

 And he made me mad—And I sat there—And tried to—Figure out some plan—To get even with him—

 And I happened—To think of a cigar—In my pocket—That a policeman gave me—The day before—

 And I hadn't smoked it—Because it was rotten—And I was saving it—To smoke out some skunks—In my back yard—

 And I lit it—And it nearly choked me—But I kept on—Blowing the foul fumes—All over him—

 And he sniffed—And he coughed—And he sneezed—And pretty soon—He asked me—What was that thing—I was puffing at—

 And I told him—It was a new kind of gas bomb—They were going to use—On the Germans—

 And he slid over—And made more room—And gave me a good cigar—And we sat and smoked—And had a good visit—By Bud.

Startling Facts About Interest

Mr. Editor: Few persons realize the enormous power of long time interest. Our Government and our banks are paying four per cent compound interest on long time deposits. To show the inconceivable power of long time compound interest I submit the following facts:

If one dollar had been put at four per cent compound interest at Christ's birth, and allowed to run until 1908, the amount due would take a mass of gold fifty thousand times the weight of the earth.

For those wishing to verify this statement I submit the following data. Money at four per cent compound interest will double in less than eighteen years. Call it eighteen. In 1908 years it would have doubled one hundred and six times. This is an amount represented by 34 figures, the 34th one being a 2.

The value of a ton of gold is six hundred and sixty millions of dollars. The weight of the earth in tons is represented by 22 figures, the 22nd being a 6, the others being naughts (6,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons). — Standard Encyclopedia, page 317.

The present wealth of all the nations of earth, six hundred and sixty-six billions of dollars, would be a mere trifle towards paying the amount due.

A Sailor's Dream

(The following was printed in The Salvo, published aboard the U. S. S. Pittsburgh. It was written by J. W. Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wilcox of 615 West Second street, Santa Ana.)

A Sailor's Dream

By J. W. Wilcox

It was a calm and cloudless day,
When our ship was ordered to sail,
Far out on the Atlantic ocean,
Where duty awaits all, without fail.

We hauled our anchor just about noon-time,
And our ship was soon under way,
Gliding across the blue waters,
The ocean as calm as a bay.

We had been sailing thus a few days,
When a storm came sweeping our path,
Gathering up the small clouds,
As it came in its mighty wrath.

The night came on with a drizzling rain,
And a raging wind did blow,
And the ship she pitched in the dark of night.

While not a light from her did show.

The rain came down in torrents,
Each sailor seemed cast in gloom,
With thoughts of the loved ones behind him,

All safe in some quiet home.

As she sits there playing some tune,
As she sits in their home far away,
Perhaps mending clothes for brother,
Or ironing the wash of the day.

He thinks of those dear old far away days,
When to mother he often would say,
"Clean and press my good suit,"
And show her how each crease should lay.

And his big bed to flop in, with springs,
Mattress and clean white sheets,
Called at eight in the morning,
To sit down to mother's good eats.

Then his mind drifts back to his sweetheart,
As she sits there playing some tune,
Bringing back old remembrances,
How they used to sit together and spoon.

They would nestle close together,
And talk of their future life,
He would build her a snug little cottage,
And claim her for his own dear wife.

They would sit and tell their misfortunes,
And speak of their troubles and woes,
Just as a brother and sister,
In sympathy with each other does.

Then the bugler sounds off hammocks,
And his mind comes back to the sea,
He runs to the place for his bedding,
And wonders what the morrow will be.

NINE LEADING WOMEN—SIX LEADING MEN

Many social problems keenly discussed in "OLD WIVES FOR NEW." Problem of divorce vital theme of story.

When a married woman becomes fat, lazy and slovenly, is divorce justifiable, this problem is answered in "OLD WIVES FOR NEW."

"Does the eternal triangle conduce to marital happiness?"—see "OLD WIVES FOR NEW."

Had Mrs. Murdock worn gowns similar to these her husband might not have lost his love for her and sought congenial company, as is shown in "OLD WIVES FOR NEW."

HOW LONG SHOULD THE HONEYMOON LAST?

With some it is a new found joy at twenty-five that lingers until it becomes an elixir of life at seventy-five. With others it is a mere phase of this jolly world. And others it is a sacred thing to be revered, if possible—If possible! What a world of meaning it has for the characters in this powerful drama! You simply mustn't miss it! Does your husband ever wish you were young again? Will the love of December be the same sweet love of May? What does the years that are passing and the silver threads that are coming mean to you? This picture may mean a life of happiness for you. Don't miss it! She was just a little faded—she had stuck to him through twenty years or more; twenty years bitter with the gall of life. She asked no questions; she just stuck through "thick and thin." But when the bloom of June faded from her cheeks—well, you'll know life better for coming to see this highly dramatic picture—

Gulfport, Miss., Today

A farewell party was given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. De Long, 312 Halesworth street, in honor of Norman Franklin, who has enlisted in the naval aviation and left today for Gulfport, Miss.

The color scheme of the dinner party was red, white and blue. Silk flags decorated the room and chandeliers.

In the center of the table was a large basket of red, white and blue flowers and cleverly designed place cards greeted guests. Little flags were placed on one corner of the cards and from the other corner long red, white and blue ribbons extended from the guests' plates to the pretty basket in the center of the table.

Fortunes told on the ends of the ribbons were put in hot shells.

A delicious three-course dinner was served at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. De Long was assisted by Misses Stella Halesworth and Daphne Franklin.

The rest of the evening was spent in merrymaking and bidding friends farewell.

Many little gifts such as comfort bags, knitted articles and a lovely box of chocolates were given to Mr. Franklin.

Those who made up the merry party were Lynn Crawford, Norman Franklin, Miss Stella Halesworth, Byron Crawford, Miss Paphne Franklin and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. De Long.

REVENUE TAX INCREASE 20 MILLION DOLLARS

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—More than $20,000,000 in excess of any previous year's collections, the Internal Revenue receipts in the ten counties of Southern California comprising the Sixth District for the fiscal year 1917-18 are approximately $24,670,564.59. Collections for the month of June reached the total of $14,241,368.75.

Office and field deputies of Internal Revenue Collector John B. Carter admit that they have been busy during the past twelve months, and they assert that although the amount collected was quintupled, they managed to handle the work with only a slight increase in the office force. A very big part of their task was the collection of nearly $18,000,000 of income and excess profit taxes. At the same time the enforcement of the revenue laws relating to transportation, tobacco and liquor, amusement enterprises and other activities required special attention.

Chief Deputy Collector Sherman

Jones declares that the Sixth Federal Revenue District ranked high among the sixty-two revenue districts maintained by the United States, and that the delinquencies were few and represented small sums of money compared to the amount collected. At this time the full tabulations are not all in, and ratings are not given out. In May of this year the Internal Revenue officers collected $2,531,880.34. After this came the enormous jump of the figures for June. In June, 1917, the total collected was $1,383,904.10.

EMPLOYMENT FOR COUNTY NEARING 350 WOMEN TO OPEN SOON MILLION SACK BEAN MARK

East First Street Cannery Will Start Operation on August 10

Thirty days more and occupation will open to 350 or more women for a period of five months, during which time at least $100,000 will be disbursed among them. The California Packing Corporation cannery on East First street will open about that time. Superintendent J. W. Shumate today is listing the names of women who want employment in the cannery and already has quite a list of applicants. Shumate expects to start the wheels to moving in the big cannery about August 10, with possibility of a short run on Refugee beans starting a little before that date.

A limited number of girls from 16 to 18 years of age will be employed, being placed in positions where their eight-hour day will not interrupt the working organization. Under the regulations of the Industrial Commission girls between these ages cannot work more than eight hours, while women may work overtime at the rate of time and a quarter for time over eight hours. Wages will be higher this year than last, averaging about 15 per cent. For peeling chilis 1 cent per pound will be the ruling price, with 1½ cents for ruling for trying or packing. Because of the fact that a certain minimum compensation has been fixed for women, the company this season will select only women who can work fast. Under piece work, quick workers can earn from $3 to $4 per day.

The full force will be started when the chilis start to come in. The corporation will have between 900 and 1000 tons of chilis. Pimientos will come on before chilis are out of the way and the two crops will keep the cannery in operation until about the first of next year. About 750 acres of pimientos have been contracted for the cannery.

The California Packing Corporation disbursed about $100,000 for help here last season and the amount will be increased by reason of the increased wage.

LIFE-GIVING TEA SERVED MEN

Over two million cups of tea, piping hot, were distributed last winter in Canadian Y. M. C. A. huts on the battle front in France. Night after night, battalions came out of the line for their spell of rest. Eight or nine weary miles were between them and billets but every mile was chopped off by the light from the Y. M. C. A. dug-outs.

The battalion would come to a halt, the men thrust their mess tins under the huge boilers of hot tea. After the refreshment they would resume their march, heated and refreshed. Robert Service, Canadian poet, sums up the praises of tea in the firing line in these lines:

"You're awfully cold and dirty,
And a cussing of your lot,
You scoff the blushing 'alf of it,
So rich and rippin' 'ot.
It hucks you up like anything,
Just seems to touch the spot.
God bless the man who first discovered tea."

Increase In the Acreage and Yield Will Swell the County Total

Orange county is gradually increasing its production of lima and black-eye beans and soon will be crowding the million sack per year mark. It is estimated that the production of all kinds of beans in the county this year will exceed 750,000 sacks. There has been an increase in acreage and the crop now growing gives promise of exceeding the per acre yield of last year.

Reports from farmers are to the effect that the prospects for a big crop were never brighter than at the present time. No damage resulted from the hot spell of two weeks ago and unless a damaging hot wave hits this section within this month the yield will be a record.

Limas and blackeyes produced about 600,000 sacks last season and an increase of 20 per cent is expected from these two. There are also other varieties of beans produced in the county.

Considerable experimenting was done last year with new beans. They proved failures and the farmers have fallen back on the lima and blackeyes. The Henderson Bush in particular did not prove up here and little if any acreage is planted to them this season.

"High normal" is the report that has gone to the government from this county as to the yield this year.

Harvesting will commence in a small way about the first of August, it being customary to ship out several carloads of new beans in that month. The rush comes in September.

Prices are not being quoted by buyers and farmers are up in the air as to probable prices. Whether the government will take a hand and establish a price is a matter that is causing some discussion among the growers. So far no price has been established by the administration. Last year as high as 13.60 cents was received by lima growers who did not contract early in the season. The average of the Lima Bean Association was about 11.30, with the net at about 11.05.

There is some little demand for limas of last year's growing and today the California Packers' Association shipped out a carload. The price paid ranged around 10½ cents per pound. The crop is pretty well cleaned up.

ALL CAN HELP BY NOT WRITING USELESS LETTERS TO U. S.

Owing to the enormous increase of government war work, the governmental departments at Washington are being flooded with letters of inquiry on every conceivable subject concerning the war, and it has been found a physical impossibility for the clerks, though they number an army in themselves now, to give many of these letters proper attention and reply.

There is published daily at Washington under authority of and by direction of the president, a government newspaper—The Official U. S. Bulletin. This newspaper prints every day all the more important rulings, decisions, regulations, proclamations, orders, etc., as they are promulgated by the several departments and the many special committees and agencies now in operation at the national capital.

This official journal is posted daily in every postoffice in the United States, more than 56,000 in number, and may also be found on file at all libraries, boards of trade and chambers of commerce, the offices of mayors, governors and others. By consulting these files most questions will be found readily answered. There will be little necessity for letter writing.

The unnecessary congestion of mails will be appreciably relieved, the railroads will be called upon to move fewer correspondence sacks, and the mass of business that is piling up in the government departments will be cleared considerably. Hundreds of clerks now answering correspondence will be enabled to give their time to essentially important work by such patriotic service.

"GOTT MIT UNS"

"Our German God is on our side," Says Bloody Bill of Prussia, "Forth with my soldiers he doth ride, Through Finland and through Russia!"

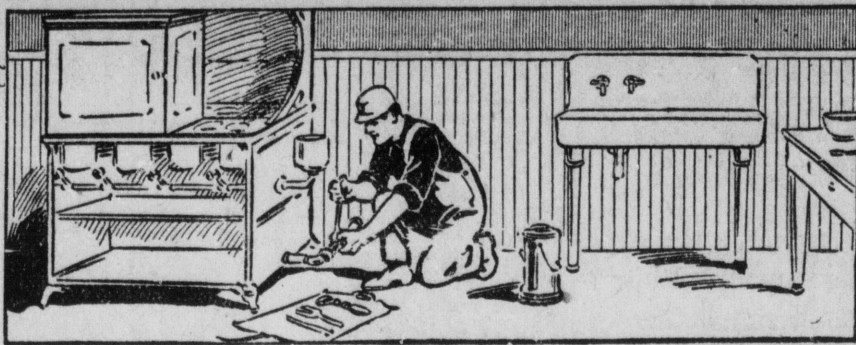

"He's with our guns when they destroy
A church on Corpus Christi;
His heart is filled with pride and joy
By gas clouds, green and misty!"

"'Twas he who taught us how to throw
Big bombs at sleeping babies;
Our German God is strong, you know,
And deals in force, not maybes!"

Yet we who learned at mother's knee
Of Christ, the gentle brother,
Can't understand how this can be
The God we knew through mother.

No, no, there must be some mistake,
Or Bloody Bill is lying;
God couldn't make the world's heart ache
With little children's crying!

Thirteen men, most of whom were married after June 9, 1917, and who have been classified in Class 2, have been notified to appear before the local exemption board at the court house tonight at 8 o'clock to show cause why they should not be placed in Class 1 and made available for early military service.

This notification has been expected under a recent ruling of the provost marshal at Washington. Under that order, the questionnaires of all of the men of Orange County District No. 1 who were put in Class 1 were turned over to the government agent, Clyde Bishop, and members of the legal advisory board for review.
